EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. Robert Beach, President of the ATLA, submits the following report from the Executive Committee:

The first and most important task of your Executive Committee, following our fine Conference at Chicago, has been putting into effect the Association's formal decisions. Of these assignments, the appointment of the Standing and Special Committees has been regarded as the foremost item of business. Here then are the ATLA Committees for 1954-55. We shall be hearing from them, since most of them are already hard at work.

With regard to the investigation of relationships with the Standing Conference of Theological and Philosophical Libraries of London, and the further question of the possibility of some type of international federation of similar groups, there is no word to report except to say that we have sent an exploratory message and greeting to Mr. Robert L. Collison in London.

It may now be officially announced that the Ninth Annual Conference of ATLA will take place at Union Theological Seminary in New York, June 15-17, 1955. Following the Chicago experience we are planning to start the Conference in the afternoon and adjourn at noon two days later. In this case the days are Wednesday through Friday. Mrs. Kincheloe is developing a splendid program and would welcome your suggestions, I know.

At Chicago the Executive Committee voted to encourage the Association to participate in the generous offer of Mr. Jay Kieffer whereby the return from his sale of three good religious duplicates, contributed by our members, will be added to our treasury. These titles should be well selected as to quality and will be listed in Mr. Kieffer's regular catalogue. He will keep track of the returns, sending the sale price directly to our Treasurer. It must be said that thus far we have not given the project a vigorous trial. It is urged that we now do so by sending three items to Mr. Jay Kieffer, P. O. Box 2311 D, Pasadena 2, California.

We welcome to the Executive Committee, as successor to Dr. Walter N. Roberts, Professor Carl S. Rasmussen of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary. We are deeply indebted to President Roberts for his fine service as representative from the AATS. We now extend a cordial welcome to his successor.

I should like to end this communication by asking the membership to give thought to three questions:

1. What is our advance thinking about the question of policy of meeting with AATS at its bi-annual conference in 1956 and thereafter? AATS, through Dr. Roberts, expressed their interest in continuation of this cordial arrangement. Since AATS is probably going to meet in Berkeley in 1956 there is a special problem of location involved. Moreover, ATLA has been invited to consider both Fort Worth and Richmond as possible meeting places for 1956.
2. What is our thinking about relationships with our colleagues in similar organizations abroad? Specifically I have in mind the comparable Association in England. We have already received two suggestions from our members to the effect that they would welcome an opportunity to serve as informal "fraternal delegates" in visits to our friends in England.

3. This is not a question but an exhortation! Since so much of the vitality of our program depends upon the work of our committees I sincerely hope that each member of ATLA will consider the road open for him to correspond with any committee chairman, communicating his suggestions and ideas for constructive service. I know that the committee chairmen will welcome their ideas.

EDWARD JOHN SALESKA

The Reverend Edward John Saleska, Library Director of the Concordia Lutheran Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, died unexpectedly of a heart attack Saturday, November 6, 1954. He was 52 years old. Mr. Saleska, a native of Lansing, Michigan, joined the Seminary staff in 1943. He conducted a weekly book review program on the Seminary's radio station, KFUD, and was co-author of the book, A Child's Garden of Prayer.

The Reverend Saleska was an alumnus of Washington University and Concordia Lutheran Theological Seminary. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, a son, and two grandchildren. Funeral services were held in the Seminary Chapel on Wednesday, November 10, and interment followed in New Bethlehem Cemetery.

EXPERIMENT IN COOPERATIVE ACQUISITIONS

During the ATLA Conference in Chicago, the librarians of five Texas theological institutions arrived at an informal cooperative acquisitions agreement. The five schools, which are within overnight mailing distance of each other are Austin Presbyterian Seminary, Dallas Theological Seminary, Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, and Texas Christian University (which includes Brite College of the Bible) in Fort Worth.

The agreement, a copy of which has been placed in the files of each of the five librarians, provides that before any one of the five orders any item of one or more volumes costing one hundred dollars or more per item, he agrees to inquire of the other four librarians as to whether or not they have the item. If the replies are in the negative, the librarian inquiring proceeds to order. When he has acquired the item, he will give notice to the other four librarians in the form of a copy of his main entry on a 3 x 5 card without the call number but with a stamp indicating the holding library. The standard grade of card stock is to be used. The librarian of Texas Christian University agrees that his responsibility in this agreement is confined to the subjects of religion and theology in their broad connotations.

BUILDING AND EQUIPMENT NOTES

The Asbury Theological Seminary Library was moved in September to its new location on the ground floor of Estes Chapel which was dedicated last January. The large room, about 120 x 50 feet with office, work room, and students' typing room adjacent, is finished in a soft green, and has fluorescent lighting and blond furnishings. The book collection is shelved on new standard steel shelving at one end of the room and some stacks holding reference books are used as partitions to make smaller study areas. The Seminary enrollment for this quarter is 210 and the library has a seating capacity for over 130.

The first professional librarian came to the Seminary library in the fall of 1945 when it had less than 5,000 books. Many of these have since been discarded and the collection now totals over 32,000 volumes cataloged according to the Union Classification scheme.

The Augustana Theological Seminary Library, Rock Island, Illinois, moved into its new three-story building on October 1, 1954. Virtually the entire faculty and student body contributed their services and established what is probably some kind of record by moving the main collection of 11,500 volumes from the old quarters into the new in less than two hours. The new library, which was made possible by the gifts of Augustana churches and their members, will provide space for the housing of 50,000 volumes and seating space for 102 students. In addition to the seating space in the reading room, eighteen study carrels and six sound-proofed typing carrels have been provided.

Other facilities of the new building include a fully-equipped audio-visual room, an archives room for the records of the Augustana Church, a storage room for seldom-used books, a cataloging room, a receiving room, a magazine area, four offices for professors, and an assembly room.

The library is part of a $615,000 building project currently on its way toward completion at the Seminary. Also on the program is the construction of a chapel addition which is expected to be completed by March 1, 1955.

The Bloomfield College and Seminary, Bloomfield, New Jersey, has received the architects' plans and drawings for a new library building which will cost an estimated $200,000. To meet the problems created by the crowded conditions in the present library building, a decentralization plan has been adopted until funds for the new structure can be raised. Under this program, three special collections and four browsing collections have been moved to locations in other campus buildings, thus freeing space in the library building for current acquisitions. Mrs. Beatrice B. Hersey is the Librarian.

The Dubuque Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, has begun construction of a new library building. The Librarian, the Reverend George Brinkman Ehlhardt broke ground for the structure on September 22. Scheduled to be completed by October, 1955, the Gothic-style building will provide ideal study conditions for students as well as space for 70,000 volumes. The plans also include future building modifications which will allow for the expansion of the collection beyond 100,000 volumes. The present structure will house, beside stacks, a large reading room, typing room, periodical alcove, service areas, the processing division offices and a suite of offices for the librarian. An exhibition gallery and rare book area will be on a balcony overlooking the main reading room.

The Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, is making plans for the enlargement of the Fleming Library. The Library was designed in 1947 and occupied in the summer of 1949. The planning contemplated a library large enough to care for the Seminary's needs for twenty years, but, after five years of use, it has become too small. This is a result of the unexpected growth of Southern Baptist churches and mission work in the Southwest. It has not yet been determined whether the present structure will be enlarged or a new one will be built.

ATLA INDEX TO RELIGIOUS PERIODICAL LITERATURE

Mr. Ernest White, ATLA Treasurer, reports that 182 copies of the Index were sold during the six months following its publication. From these sales royalties of $785.80 were received by the ATLA.

Dr. Jannette E. Newhall, Chairman of the Committee on Periodical Indexing, has received complaints regarding the decision made at the ATLA meeting in Chicago to omit the listing of book reviews from the next issue of the Index. Dr. Newhall and Mrs. Pierre R. Quiers, the Editor of the second volume of the Index, may at a later date ask for a vote of the membership on this question. Meanwhile, they request that each ATLA member send a postal card to Mrs. Quiers, Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary, 100 East 22nd Street, Minneapolis 4, Minnesota, indicating his feeling about the elimination of the index to book reviews from the second volume of the ATLA Index to Religious Periodical Literature. Dr. Newhall also requests that any member who is now indexing a periodical indicate to Mrs. Quiers whether or not he would be willing to continue indexing significant book reviews as well as articles in the journals which are his responsibility. Dr. Newhall specifies that this will not be regarded as an official vote but only as an informal one showing the present trend of thinking among ATLA members.

CATALOGING NEWS AND NOTES

The Princeton Theological Seminary expects to begin within the coming year the reclassification of its collection of Biblical Literature in the BS classification of the Library of Congress scheme. Dr. Kenneth Gapp, the Librarian, would like to hear from any other seminary librarians who have made adjustments or minor changes in this part of the LC schedule.

The Catholic University of America Press has recently published a second edition, revised by Gilbert C. Peterson, S.J., of Mrs. Jeannette Murphy Lynn's Alternative Classification for Catholic Books.

The Second Supplement (May 1945 to August 1951) to the Classification of the Library of Union Theological Seminary has been reissued. Incorporated with it in one sequence are the first seven Current Lists of Additions and Changes, through December 1953. This is available from Union Theological Seminary Library, 3041 Broadway, New York 27, N. Y., at $1.00.

During the course of the ATLA Conference in Chicago last June, several librarians expressed an interest in comparing notes with others on the Religious Education sections in the Dewey and Union Classifications. A half dozen librarians submitted the modifications of the scheme employed in their libraries to Dr. Herbert H. Wernecke, Librarian of the Eden Theological Seminary, who has mimeographed the entire set and distributed copies to those who expressed their interest at Chicago. Any other librarian who would like a copy of these Religious Education classification schemes may secure a set by writing to Dr. Wernecke at the Eden Theological Seminary Library, Webster Groves, Missouri. The stencils will be kept only until Christmas so requests should be sent immediately.

The following notice is reprinted from the LC Information Bulletin, v. 13, no. 14, October 4, 1954:

"Request to Librarians. The Dewey Decimal Classification Office is interested in obtaining copies of expansions of the classification that other libraries have worked out for their own use. It will be appreciated if readers of the Information Bulletin who have such expansions at hand will forward copies in the near future to David J. Haykin, Editor of the Decimal Classification, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D. C."
